PLAYER PROFILE

32 MATHIS PAULL

Mathis Paull has quickly carved out a role as a reliable rookie power forward with the Regina Pats in his first WHL season. The 16-year-old Vernon, B.C. product has emerged as a key bottom-six checking forward, bringing size, physicality, and consistent energy to the lineup night after night.

Standing 6-foot-3 and weighing 198 pounds, Paull uses his frame effectively along the boards and down low, winning puck battles and setting the tone with heavy, physical play. His willingness to finish checks and play a straight-line game has made him a dependable presence in defensive situations while providing momentum shifts through his physical engagement.

A right-winger, Paull was selected by the Pats in the third round of the 2024 WHL Prospects Draft and continues to show why he is viewed as an important piece of the club's long-term future. He totaled 20 points (8G-12A) in 31 games with RHA Kelowna U18 last season, showcasing early offensive upside to complement his rugged style.

Through 26 games this season, Paull has recorded four points (3G-1A). With his size, work ethic, and maturity at just 16 years old, Paull is laying a strong foundation as a physical, dependable forward the Pats can continue to build around in the years ahead.

SCOUTING REPORT

SASKATOON BLADES

The Saskatoon Blades continue to set a high standard of consistency in the Eastern Conference. After finishing the 2024-25 regular season with a 37-23-4-4 record (82 points) and placing sixth in the East, the Blades' campaign came to an end with a first-round sweep at the hands of the Calgary Hitmen.

Despite the playoff result, Saskatoon has now posted eight straight above-.500 seasons and has qualified for the postseason in five consecutive years in which playoffs were held, reinforcing their reputation as one of the WHL's most reliable programs.

Saskatoon enters this matchup playing solid hockey, having won four of its last six games (4-1-0-1).

Through 35 games, the Blades sit tied for fifth in the Eastern Conference with an 18-14-2-1 record and 39 points, having played the most games in the conference to date. While that positioning suggests a middle-of-the-pack standing, it mirrors a familiar pattern for Saskatoon. At the Christmas break last season, the Blades were 17-10-2-2 (38 points) and tied for second in the East.

PLAYER TO WATCH

27 HUNTER LAING

Saskatoon Blades forward Hunter Laing is on pace for a career year, projected to surpass his previous high of 48 points set last season. The Calgary Flames prospect is tracking toward a 65-point campaign (31G-34A) over 65 games.

The Kelowna, B.C. product has been a key offensive contributor for Saskatoon, recording 31 points (15G-16A) in 31 games so far this season. Laing currently ranks second on the Blades in both scoring and goals, providing consistent production from the right side.

Laing was acquired by the Blades in a blockbuster trade with the Prince George Cougars last season, with Saskatoon sending then-leading scorer Ben Riche, and acquiring Laing with two draft picks and a prospect. He made an immediate impact following the move, scoring 15 goals and 26 points in 28 games with the Blades after the trade.

At 6-foot-6, 206 pounds, the right winger brings a rare combination of size and skill, ranking as the third-tallest player in the WHL and presenting a constant matchup challenge for opposing defences.
