PLAYER PROFILE

6 REESE HAMILTON

In his third season in the Western Hockey League, Reese Hamilton has taken a noticeable step forward—emerging as one of the most reliable and productive defencemen on the Regina Pats blue line.

The Whitewood, Saskatchewan product is in the midst of a career-best stretch, riding a six-game point streak that has produced nine points (1G-8A). That surge has helped Hamilton climb to second among all Pats defencemen in scoring, entering tonight's contest with 36 points (6G-30A) in 55 games. The total already surpasses his previous career high of 31 points, set as a 16-year-old with the Calgary Hitmen during the 2022-23 season.

Selected fourth overall in the 2022 WHL Prospects Draft, Hamilton ranks second on the Pats with a +1 plus-minus rating, an impressive mark considering the heavy defensive assignments and top-matchup minutes he regularly draws against opposing top lines.

Hamilton has also become a key contributor on special teams. He's played an important role on Regina's power play, which currently sits eighth-best in the WHL, recording 16 power-play points, including 15 assists.

SCOUTING REPORT

PRINCE GEORGE COUGARS

The Prince George Cougars arrive in the middle of their Eastern Division road swing established as one of the premier teams in the Western Hockey League and a legitimate contender once again this season.

Prince George enters play with a 35-20-2-0 record and 72 points, sitting third in the Western Conference and tracking toward a third consecutive 40-win season. The Cougars' success has been anything but short-term. Since the start of the 2022-23 campaign, they've compiled an impressive 162-80-13-6 record, advanced past the first round in three straight playoff appearances, and made a deep run to the Western Conference Final in 2023-24.

Offensively, the Cougars boast one of the deepest lineups in the league, with four players operating at a point-per-game pace or better. Leading the way is Terik Parascak, the Washington Capitals' first-round pick. On the back end, projected top-10 NHL Draft pick Carson Carels has been a major difference-maker, piling up 58 points (17G-41A) in 48 games.

The Cougars also strengthened their forward group through offseason additions, most notably Brock Souch, who has delivered immediate impact with 62 points (23G-39A) in 56 games, giving Prince George another proven scoring threat in all situations.

PLAYER TO WATCH

32 TERIK PARASCAK

Few players in the Western Hockey League have risen as quickly as Terik Parascak, whose offensive growth has turned him into one of the most dynamic forwards with the Prince George Cougars.

The Lethbridge, Alberta product burst onto the scene with a breakout rookie season in 2023-24, finishing among the league's elite scorers with 105 points (43G-62A) in 68 games. His impact carried into the postseason, where he added 14 points (6G-8A) in 12 playoff games. That dominant first campaign earned him a spot on the 2024 CHL All-Rookie Team and put him firmly on the NHL radar.

Parascak's trajectory continued upward at the NHL level when he was selected 17th overall in the first round of the 2024 NHL Draft by the Washington Capitals.

Rather than plateau, Parascak followed up with a strong 18-year-old season in 2024-25, recording 82 points (28G-54A) in 59 games, showing continued refinement in his playmaking and consistency. This season, the 6-foot, 187-pound forward has remained a focal point of Prince George's offence, tallying 67 points (27G-40A) in 51 games while facing top defensive matchups on a nightly basis.

A two-time BC Division All-Star, Parascak blends speed, skill, and hockey sense, making him dangerous both as a finisher and a distributor
