PLAYER PROFILE

10 KEETS FAWCETT

Few players have taken a bigger step forward this season for the Regina Pats than Keets Fawcett. The 19-year-old forward has emerged as a consistent offensive threat, setting new career highs with 29 goals and 54 points in just 48 games.

Fawcett has been red-hot of late, piling up nine points (4G-5A) over his last six games, and he's making his offence count when it matters most. His four game-winning goals lead the Pats. With a 1.15 points-per-game average, Fawcett tops the Regina roster in scoring, while his 29 goals rank first on the team—just ahead of Caden Brown's 28.

The breakout campaign is a major leap from last season, when the Grimshaw, Alberta product recorded 19 points (8G-11A) in 44 games with Regina.

His development has been building for some time. After an impressive rookie season with the Calgary Hitmen in 2023-24—where he posted 45 points (19G-26A) in 65 games—Fawcett has carried that momentum forward and elevated his impact as a 19-year-old. Across his WHL career, split between Calgary and Regina, he now owns 125 points (58G-67A) in 176 games.

SCOUTING REPORT

SASKATOON BLADES

The Saskatoon Blades enter tonight sixth in the WHL's Eastern Conference with 66 points and a 30-24-4-2 record, fresh off clinching a playoff berth thanks to a 5-3 victory over the Penticton Vees on Wednesday.

While a postseason spot is secured, the job isn't finished. With eight games remaining, the Blades are still battling for positioning—just five points back of fifth-place Brandon, while holding a 15-point cushion on seventh-place Regina. Every point down the stretch could reshape their first-round matchup.

The playoff berth marks five straight appearances dating back to 2021-22, and perhaps even more impressively, extends their streak to eight consecutive seasons above the .500 mark. Consistency has become a defining trait of the franchise.

Saskatoon's identity starts in goal with Evan Gardner, a prospect of the Columbus Blue Jackets. Up front, Saskatoon is powered by two rising stars eligible for the 2026 NHL Draft, both committed to the University of North Dakota.

Cooper Williams, the team's leading scorer has piled up 57 points (15G-42A), and Brayden Klimpke adds another dimension with 40 points (4G-36A) from the backend.

PLAYER TO WATCH

35 EVAN GARDNER

When it comes to most valuable players in the WHL this season, Evan Gardner belongs firmly in the conversation. The backbone of the Saskatoon Blades, Gardner has been the driving force behind the club's climb to a sixth-place position in the Eastern Conference, consistently giving his team a chance to win on a nightly basis.

Durability and workload have defined Gardner's season. The Fort St. John, B.C. product has appeared in 45 games, the second-most of any goaltender in the WHL, while ranking second in total minutes played (2,473). Despite the heavy usage, Gardner has delivered steady results, posting a 22-15-3-2 record, along with a 2.96 goals-against average and a .904 save percentage. His three shutouts, tied for third in the league.

Gardner enters this matchup in strong form, having won his last three starts and allowing three goals or fewer in each of his last five outings.

Standing 6-foot-1 and 181 pounds, Gardner's consistency and upside have not gone unnoticed at the next level. He is a prospect of the Columbus Blue Jackets, who selected him in the second round (60th overall) of the 2024 NHL Draft.
